

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to a method for repairing a photomask by removing a residual defect in the photomask, the method including removing the defect area by gallium chelation with a water-soluble amine polymer.